InnovoCommerce LLC introduces a risk-based enterprise SharePoint deployment validation service for life science organizations

IRVINE, CA – Monday March 30, 2009 – InnovoCommerce, LLC has launched an innovative new service offering that helps life science organizations organize and validate their enterprise SharePoint deployments.

Based on GAMP 5 guidelines and principles, InnovoCommerce's new offering introduces an agile, flexible and quality-driven risk-based approach to helping organizations rapidly validate enterprise SharePoint environments to comply with regulations such as FDA 21 CFR Part 11. The company is currently working with a diverse group of life science organizations to introduce best practice validation, change control and governance planning to help ensure that their enterprise SharePoint deployments can be considered compliant.

According to Daniel O'Connor, Chief Business Officer of InnovoCommerce, "the market that we serve has been asking for this expertise and service for some time now." O'Connor continued, "based on our team's extensive collective expertise in the area of FDA validation for information management systems, we knew that we needed to develop a compelling turnkey SharePoint validation program that would add tremendous value for our clients. The adoption of SharePoint technologies in the life science industry has become widespread now and we are now helping our clients to address the infrastructure and application validation considerations head on."

The InnovoCommerce validation offering includes the following components:

- Enterprise SharePoint deployment strategy and planning
- Enterprise SharePoint risk assessment strategy and risk matrix
- Master validation plan, change control guide and governance plan for SharePoint
- SharePoint IQ and controlled application OQ and PQ assistance
- Enterprise SharePoint validation turnkey program management

The InnovoCommerce team delivers the validation offering in whole or in part based on client need and requirements. Companies can select the InnovoCommerce team to manage the entire enterprise SharePoint validation process or deliver mission-critical components such as the risk assessment matrix.
